The Neo-Luciferian Manifesto

“We must away from the human – towards the inferiorly considered animal – if we want to find the image of God in its closest possible fulfillment and reality – not to wind up on a lower spiritual and intellectual plane than we were on before the transition, but in order to end up on a higher.”

- Ben Kadosh

“There is a god – in humans and in nature. He is Lucifer, the light that breaks forth from darkness, the masculine manifestation of the feminine primeval principle that made him and rule through him, “the Black Flame”, the projection of life’s core itself. A goddess unified with her god – a creative force in the universe. Lucifer is god in a time without gods.”

-Tau Lucem Fero

1. Lucifer is the deity of illumination, education and insight.

Stupidity, conscious rejection of facts that doesn't suit into your philosophy of life, blind belief in old dogmas, fear of seeking answers, is the mentality of slaves and henchmen, not leaders and individualists. The Neo-Luciferian Church celebrates the strong, illumined man, unafraid of insight – even when this insight is in opposition to common norms.

2. Lucifer is the deity of pride.

Lucifer represents pride, self-esteem and knowledge of your own worth. The fear of success and the fear of standing out from the gray masses, are tokens of weakness. The mediocre is not a golden middle way, but a symptom of lack of self-esteem – a forerunner of jealousy against, and condemnation of, those who are doing well. The creative, producing and communicating individual contributes to the evolution of the world. The lazy and passive man, the camp follower who wallow in his own mediocrity, is like a parasite on the living tree of life.

3. Lucifer is the deity of freedom.

Freedom of choice and the right to formulate individual moral values are the tokens of an illumined society. Every human has an unconditional right to its own body, including its own sexuality. This unconditional right is for everybody: no one should be a victim of other people's uncontrolled behavior. The mature and conscious man has the right to eat, drink and consummate what he want and when he want it – if only he's responsible for the implications by doing so. Likewise man has the right to die when and how he will. Those who hinder these rights for humanity must expect merciless opposition from those who fight freedom's cause.

4. Lucifer is the deity of prosperity.

Prosperity and success are roads to freedom and increased self-determination, if used correctly. Striving towards higher goals is something natural to both humans and animals. In the lion's flock the male fights to be the strongest and most impressive. In the human flock it's the hunt for riches and fame that motivates. Ambition, striving, putting future goals into perspective and stubborn persistence in the increase of possibilities are aims that is celebrated in the Neo-Luciferian Church. False humility, toady backscratching and self-pretentious behavior are cowardness and the mark of those who want, but cannot bear, prosperity.

5. Lucifer is a primeval force.

A primeval darkness gave birth to the light. Light was a condition for life. The forces of nature are called by many names in the religions and philosophies of the world. The fearsome man worshipped humbly this marvel of creation, ascribed moral values to it, dictatorial rules of life and submitted to these self-invented norms. Shame, guilt, self-abasement and self-sacrifice in the name of a fictive god, is something alien to the Neo-Luciferian. The divine force, which is, is not occupied with moral values – just as little as electricity, magnetism or gravity is. Lucifer is a name for this primeval force in the universe, but also a personified, as well as abstract, reality. Not like a dictatorial father or elder brother, but as a force that can be mobilized by the knowing and willful human, Homo Volens.
